

The 10 Golden Rules of Gymnastics

I do gymnastics for fun

Enjoying what you do is the most important part of sport.

I know that I will have good days and tough days

Ups and downs, wins and setbacks, are all part of any learning process.

My health is more important than medals

An athlete's mental, emotional and physical health must come before results, in both the short and long term.

I understand and respect the roles of the people around me

Everyone has an important part to play and working as a team is the best way to succeed.

I listen to my body

It's important to recognise and respect each other's limits and capabilities

I have the right to be respected as I am

Everyone's uniqueness and strengths should be celebrated. Success comes in all forms.

I pursue my own dreams, not someone else's

Set realistic goals and celebrate any success you achieve.

I balance my passion for gymnastics with other big goals in my life

Finding a good mix of studies/work, sports and free time helps us grow and succeed as people.

I have the right to express myself freely, be heard and be treated fairly

Everyone should have the opportunity to express their views on matters that concern them in a respectful manner, without punishment.

I act with fairness and integrity

Sportsmanship is about being fair and honest. Be true to yourself and others, and play by the rules.
