Additional comments and recommendations:

Accommodation and meal arrangements were provided by each individual club, supervised by coaches and teachers. Athletes were accommodated in different units. From the information received on the quality of services (accommodation and meals) they were satisfactory. It can be confirmed that both athletes and coaches were physically, mentally and emotionally fit on the day of the competition but also on the accommodation day.

It is worth mentioning that the athletes were constantly encouraged, motivated by their coaches and also showed respect, fair play and mutual support throughout the competition. These aspects highlight the importance of safeguarding education, which must be present not only during training but also during competitions.

However, the report identifies some areas for improvement in future competitions. Better communication and coordination between organizers, coaches, parents and athletes is recommended to ensure understanding, compliance with all safeguarding policies and regulations and to keep the competition space safe (only coaches and their competing athletes are allowed, along with referees) without jeopardising the smooth running of the competition.

Particular attention must also be paid to ensure adequate and safe facilities for training and competition.

All in all, it was truly a motivating competition atmosphere with a positive energy that is beneficial to a national competition. The audience behaved appropriately, decently, always encouraging the athletes.

The evaluation report underlines the importance of continuing and respecting the safeguarding policies in the field of Women's Artistic Gymnastics in Romania, in order to maintain a safe environment both at training and competition.
